USDA distributes USDA Foods to food banks, soup kitchens, disaster feeding organizations, Indian Tribal Organizations, charitable institutions and other feeding organizations, helping families stretch their food budgets and ensuring that all Americans have healthy foods within reach.

USDA foods are also offered to schools in order to help them provide healthy, high quality lunches to more than 32 million children daily.

USDA foods include high quality fruits, vegetables, dairy products, whole grains, lean meats, poultry and fish.

USDA works to ensure USDA FOODS meet the Dietary Guidelines for Americans, including reduced levels of fats, sodium and sugars.

USDA FoodS are 100% American Grown, meeting the highest safety and nutrition standards.

USDA purchases more than 2 billion pounds of food worth nearly $2 BILLION from American farmers each year.

USDA helps support American Farmers, keeping local agriculture strong and stimulating the economy.
